"THE LORD BLESS YOU"

This statement is an expression of favour, hope and praise for the future, even life forever more. It is acknowledgement of God's goodness to bestow the nature of that which is of the highest good, and is more than a social greeting.

Blessing is the opposite of cursing; it is a state of happiness. The Lord is the source of all blessing, and people express gratitude for that blessing. God providentially directs all existence and its functions. God provides blessings, either directly or through His representatives. God's initiative rests with Him.

Spiritual and material benefits are given as gifts by God to be enjoyed. He is the source of all blessings. The condition of God's blessings is to obey and revere Him. There are God's blessings of peace, victory, restoration, fruitfulness and prosperity. However, disobedience and sin can cause God to remove His blessing.

Reverence for God brings blessings and favour to individual believers, their relatives and the community to which they belong. God responds to those who reverence Him and rewards them.

 BIBLICAL KNOWLEDGE- Did you know that Jesus stopped teaching and healed a crippled woman, bent double for eighteen years. During this one incident Jesus broke seven Traditional Jewish Laws, which were man-made extensions of God's Laws? 1. He acknowledged a woman in public. 2. He called to her and asked her to come to Him in public. 3. He allowed her to enter the men's section of the Synagogue. 4. He touched a woman in public. 5. He brought her onto the speaker's podium in the centre of the Synagogue. 6. He allowed her to be in the place of honour in front of the important Jewish Teachers of the Synagogue. 7. He healed her on the Sabbath. The woman praised God.

There is a colouring in page of Jesus healing the woman in the temple at <http://www.tne.net.au/~abdaacts/image12.html>

AN APRIL EVENT-Some only pretend to be apostles of Christ draped in religious robes. The word inquisition, similar to inquire and inquest, refers to the judicial organization authorized by the medieval church to uproot heresy. Earlier the church had excommunicated heretics, as most church leaders had opposed physical sentences. As heresy flourished, official procedure and attitudes changed. On April 20, 1233 Pope Gregory IX issued two edicts, delegating the prosecution of heresy to the Dominican order. These Inquisitors roamed the countryside, cautioning heretics to confess. Those who did not were brought to trial. Pope Innocent IV had allowed the use of torture to gain repentance; suspects were flogged, burned, slashed, frozen, stretched, and suspended by their limbs. Inventions included thumbscrews for crushing thumbs, boots for slowly crushing feet, and the dreaded Jungfer, or "iron maid." Children and the elderly could be "lightly" tortured, and only pregnant women were exempt—until after delivery. The Inquisition operated in Germany, France and Italy, and in Spain and fashioned itself against Jews, Blacks, and Protestants. It made a show of being religious, but in brutal dungeons it was the very enemy of the One they claimed to follow.
