This month's coloured attachment scripture is HABAKKUK 2:4(b)

"THE RIGHTEOUS MAN TRUSTS IN ME AND LIVES"

Those who trust God live His plan for their life, relying on His promises of abundant life. The proud elevate themselves and brag of conquests. The haughty rely on self-ability for accomplishments. A righteous believer keeps God's commandments. God requires uprightness of His people.

In contrast to the proud, the just will truly be saved through faithfulness to God. It is not a one-time act, but a way of life for a true believer. A righteous person depends upon The Lord, The Sovereign God. Those with righteous hearts are turned towards God, they want to obey His will, be close and have a personal loyal relationship with Him. They are stable in all their ways. The righteous are morally steadfast.

God loves the righteous; He protects, provides, blesses and listens to their petitions. God has a reward for the righteous. The righteous are secure. Trust in God's reliability, stability, and security is the basis for reliance and dependability in and on God.

God counts believers righteous because of Christ and will be presented blameless before God. Believers should be blameless in their Christian life. His grace overshadows those who trust Him for their righteousness which causes them to have life.

► BIBLICAL KNOWLEDGE- Did you know that the disciple and Apostle Matthew who was born a Jew, is the same person as Levi, son of Alphaeus? Matthew promptly responded to Jesus' call and became a disciple of Jesus, he did not do so quietly, he held a banquet for Jesus to meet and teach his fellow tax collector friends.

A Colouring Page of Matthew doing his duty collecting toll payments and transport taxes from local merchants, farmers carrying their wares to market, and distant traders passing through Galilee is found at <http://www.tne.net.au/~abdaacts/matthew.html>

A JUNE EVENT- The French Revolution was not for religious freedom but to replace religion with reason. France, had the largest population in Europe, had trouble feeding its masses. On June 8, 1794, a disciple of Rousseau named Robespierre and the French National Convention formally inaugurated a new religion. It was a form of deism, the belief that there is a God who, having created the universe, more or less disappeared. The Convention ordered people to recognize the existence of a supreme being and the immortality of the soul, but to reject the false notion of Christianity. The seven-day Christian week was exchanged for a ten-day week, and new holidays were commissioned celebrating the great events of the Revolution and revered Saints were replaced with political heroes. Churches were designated “Temples of Reason.” A statue called the Goddess of Reason was erected in Notre Dame. The Catholic clergy were forbidden to teach. June 8 became France’s “Holy Day,” the “Festival of the Supreme Being.” The revolutionaries vowed to replace the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost with a new trinity—“Liberty, Equality, and Fraternity.” which deteriorated into fear, bloodshed, and the guillotine. Following June 8, 1794 the heads of 1,400 people fall paving the way for Napoleon Bonaparte who, recognized the church once again. He planned to be consecrated by Pope Pius VII, but at the last moment the little dictator took the crown from the pope and set it on his own head.

God Bless.
